

The Wedding Picture Of Rahel And Rafael

This is a picture from Rahel and Rafael's wedding in the 1970s in Israel. Rahel is a daughter of my brother David Levi. Rafael was in the Israeli army during the wars and later he chose aviation. He worked there for a long time and lately he has retired. Rahel is a clerk and she works a lot with computers. They live in Rishon Le Zion. My brother David wasn't very ambitious, he remained uneducated and he used to be a laborer. He felt underprivileged in our family because we didn't pay much attention to him. He got married in Bulgaria and his two daughters were born here. He used to work in a textile factory then and he was given a small room there, which he used to live in. Yet, he moved to Israel as early as 1949, where he continued to work in whatever job he found. His children are very good people. One of his daughters, Rahel, used to be a bank clerk, the other, Mazal, made a career as well and they both have nice families.