

Solon Molho With Friends On Mount Olympus

This is a picture taken on Mount Olympus well before the war, sometime in the 1930s. It is the group of people with whom my husband Solon Molho used to go skiing. My husband was a very athletic person. He used to go skiing and hiking but also he and his friends had a sailing boat and went fishing. They went wherever they wanted to; they liked to live life in a healthy way. Here you can see them with their wooden skis in their hands. Solon is the one in the middle who is almost kneeling.