Charles Molho

This picture of Charles Molho, my father's brother, was taken in Thessaloniki in the early 1920s.

My father, Raphael Molho, was the first of ten siblings.
Out of the big family of my father'ss there were left only a sister.

Bella, who lived in Israel, then still Palestine, a brother Charles, who lived in Brussels and survived Auschwitz.

Another brother Jacques who lived in Grenoble and also survived and two brothers living in Thessaloniki, Saoul and Alberto.
That is four brothers in all.
